NEW YORK, October 25.—The Herald's Charleston correspondent says: "James L. Orr, formerly Speaker of the National House of Representatives, and here recently received, a majority of votes in Charleston for Governor, and the Legislative ticket, known as the Mechanics and Workingmen's, was successful."

A correspondence between Secretary Seward and Provisional Governor Perry, is published in the Herald, in which Seward inquires as to when he should cease to exercise the function of office, was informed that he should continue to act until relieved by the express order of the President.

The world's correspondence says: "Act No. 1, every part of which is a bill, contains a provision which elected Governor that Wade H. H. in evidence of this he South Carolina."—Charleston, and in cities the votes polled in the election districts, he, the Judicial of the state, outside of the corporation limits of the city. In the city of Charleston, the vote stands: For Orr, 786; for Hampton, 661. In the parishes just mentioned the vote stands: Hampton, 252; Orr, 61—leaving General Hampton a majority of 100 votes, or 100 votes alone.

General Howard, Commissioner of Freedmen's Affairs, on the 18th inst., in an address explanatory of the objects of the Freedmen's Bureau and his present visit to the South, delivered a speech before the Mayors and citizens of the Common Council, and the citizens of Charleston, made some announcements of importance. The General spoke of the hostile feeling toward the Bureau in Charleston, and the Mayor acknowledged it, and said he had no hopes for the success of the civil law until it was completely restored.

The General said there was clamor of politicians, but he had generally found plotters favorable to the continuance of the Bureau's superintendence of affairs. He, himself, as well as the President, wished him to be succeeded by a man nominated by military, but the negroes, having lost the protection of their masters, need some guarantee for the safety of their interests, and until the State has allowed freedom to testify in its courts, he was free to see that the Bureau's work was done.

The General stated, was very chary of surrendering the State to civil law until a stop was put to outrages on the blacks.

The General gave encouraging replies to those planters who are seeking the restoration of their property, and said he hoped to have the negroes guaranteed their rights of freedom, passed by the Legislature, and the present difficulty between the two races settled. He announced his purpose of establishing courts, to consist of an army officer and two citizens, to take cognizance of all cases of complaints by or against colored people.

Gen. Howard subsequently addressed the negroes along the coast, and then took his departure for the State Capital to confer with Gov. Perry.

Gen. Benham, commanding the district of Georgia, has issued an order directing the military to surrender to the civil tribunals, where the officers of the latter are duly qualified, the adjudication of legal matters, excepting such as relates to property in the possession of the Negro, to be referred to the civil authorities, and in which cases are interested.

There have recently been extensive restorations to citizens of Charleston of property seized by the Government. Nearly all the wharf-owners and several of the largest property-holders of the city have again unrestricted control of their former possessions.

The South Carolina Legislature lately elected has assembled, and holds an extra session to-day.

The State Conventions of Florida and Georgia met to-day. Texas is the only Southern state in rebellion which has not elected members and called a convention for the purpose of reconstruction under the proclamation of the President.
